

I do not lease a telephone line to have people call to sell me things, or vote for things. If allowed, I should be reimbursed for my time and expenses ($100.00 a call would be a good tariff rate). Currently, if I ask a firm not to call my number again, they hang up on me. Thus, I can not take advantage of the current laws. This is out of control and it is your fault, FCC. You have failed the telephone customers.

I could go on with details but I just get too mad. Maybe if you gave me your home phone number and I could call you when it was good for me, we could discuss it. Now this could be during dinner time, maybe when you are sleeping, or maybe when you or your family are waiting for a doctor to call back with medical updates on a serious condition you have, but it will not matter because YOU DO NOT CARE ABOUT PEOPLE.

The fact that you are having "hearings" to see if there is a problem shows how out of touch you are.
